

Types of Cases (among many others)

Employment Issues

Disputes and lawsuits arising out of employment relationships are becoming more and more frequent such as concerns involving wrongful dismissal, privacy rights, ...

LEARN MORE

Payment Failures

Overdue loans or accounts (debts) may be resolved with a strongly worded letter threatening pending litigation. Of course, if the amount remains due, legal action may ...

LEARN MORE

Various Injuries

Wrongful conduct can cause injuries such as 'slip and fall' by negligence or other harm such as emotional or reputational injuries due to breach of privacy, defamation

LEARN MORE

Harassing Collectors

While a collection agent calling to collect on an overdue account is generally a lawful behaviour, collectors are required to perform collection efforts in accordance to the ...

LEARN MORE

Workmanship Defects

Contractors performing work upon construction or renovation projects as well as mechanics, among others, performing repairs, will from time-to-time make mistakes and ...

LEARN MORE

Real Estate Sale Disputes

Cases can involve the failure to disclose known dangerous defects during a home sale, the failure to complete dealings on closing day, the removal of fixtures or chattels ...

LEARN MORE

Contract Breaches

Breach of contract is a cause of action at law whereby a binding agreement is not honoured. If a party to a contract fails to fulfill a binding contractual promise or indicates ...

LEARN MORE

Wrongful Business Conduct

Tort law issues in business affairs are as broad and varied as business and cases can involve conspiracy, deceit, intentional interferences, injurious falsehood, passing off ...

LEARN MORE

Consumer Protection

The old adage 'buyer beware' (caveat emptor) remains with only a minor presence in the current law of today's world. While some transactions remain subject to the ...

LEARN MORE 